Email: musa.zahid@gmail.com

Career Objectives

I am a man of focus, commitment and sheer will. I plan to gain respect through my strategy building and problem solving; because throughout my life I've faced countless situations where for a moment I almost gave up on the things and people around me but one thing remained consistent always, I found a way through every problem I faced; this induced a sense of optimism so deep that later on I became immune to set backs and negative emotions. People say I'm level-headed, humble and brutally honest, while all I do is keep a balance in my life; I have a professional side which is driven by focused goals and strategies to implement those goals with a sense of becoming empathic to the people around me and shouldering every complication that threatens my colleagues and our aims. While personally I'm as open and talkative as everyone else; I try to be the life of the party and making the best of the moment in front of me has always been my motto. I believe its knowing when to bring out your professional side and when to let loose and be free.
